Nice Advice by Niceperson223

Hi and welcome back to my advice channel! I am beyond overjoyed that there were so many people writing questions in the box! Today our first piece of advice is from the box: "How do I get a person to like me?" What I would say to this is if someone likes you, they like you. If they don't they don't. Don't change to impress a person.

Our next question is "How to be the sickest middle schooler ever?" I would say you already are pretty cool.

And lastly, "I Have A Friend Who Is Extremely Clingy. They Always Fish For Compliments And Whisper To Their Friends Right In Front Of Me. Every time I Try To Talk To Them They Get Mad. Help!" I would say just tell them how you feel and if they get upset just take some space, hopefully, they understand.

Thank you so much for all the questions that I received in the box, and if you have a question just come to room 103! Thank you so much for listening and hope this helps. Bye!

Moonrise Kingdom by Jaz

Moonrise Kingdom is an amazing movie about Sam and Suzie, 2 12 year old pen pals who fall in love. This movie takes place in 1965 in New Penzance, a 32 mile long island off the coast of New England. Sam is a part of Camp Ivanhoe, a scout "training" camp with 11 boys (including Sam), a scout leader, and a dog. Suzie is a neglected child who lives in a lighthouse. They decide to run away together. The entire movie is just following their story. It has twists, happiness, and sadness and adventure! I personally love this movie. Alex Winston says, "It's well directed, funny, heartwarming, and generally a good movie!" I totally agree. Hope you liked this article, bye!

Z-O-M-B-I-E-S The Movie Talk

by Natalie & Katie

Hello everybody, this week we are going to be talking about the movie Zombies, the first original movie. The best part of the movie was when Addison and Zed had their first song. It was so good. It's called someday. Another one of the best parts of the movie was when there was the bouncy floor, the song is called BAMB it's literally THE BEST SCENE IN THE MOVIE! It's the biggest dance number in the movie! The worst part of the movie: there wasn't a bad part in the movie!!

We give the movie Zombies a 10/10 because the songs are pretty good, it has a really good plot, the dance moves are really good and it always has something going on and nothing is really boring. And soon there will be a zombie's 3!!! May 2022! Reid said, "I rate it a 9/10, because it is straight fire. My favorite part of the movie is when they all dance and sing as one whole cast."

Thank you for reading about this week's movie review. Hope you are looking into watching Zombies.

Jeff Probst Fan Page by JeffFan444

HEYY! Welcome back to another JEFF FAN PAGE! The article that's ALL about SURVIVOR! I have a good amount to write about, so let's start!

Christan talking for 4000 hours - David vs Goliath is an amazing Survivor season, and during one immunity challenge, there were two players left, a loveable geeky survivor player named Christan and some strong dude. Christan asks Jeff "Mind if I tell a story to pass the time?" and proceeds to talk for 3 hours straight. 3 HOURS. After this long story, he asks if anyone wants to play 20 questions, tells another story and so on. It annoys everyone to pieces. EVEN JEFF. Christan ended up winning the challenge though. But not after a really amazing part where the strong dude looks at Christan and goes "Your safe, I'm not" and Christan says, "I know."

Christian goes on, -with tears in his eyes- explaining how he might never have the opportunity to win a challenge again. I honestly loved this part so much, it really showed that even the extremely strongest players can be emotional and weak.

Survivor Player of the week: I had this random idea, to come up with a Survivor player of the week! Basically I'm going to choose one Survivor player and why they are important to me!

DAVID VS GOLIATH- Ok this is extremely random but i'm honestly in love with the Survivor season. I DON'T KNOW WHAT ABOUT IT, IT'S JUST SO GOOD.

Family meeting: Ok so in the season I'm currently watching, the family visit just happened and that got me wondering if I was on Survivor, who would come for me? Honestly my dog or cat. Or Jeff YES JEFF COULD COME FOR MY FAMILY VISIT. THAT MAKES TOTAL SENSE.

12 Hour Challenge: That's right, a Survivor immunity challenge went 12 hours! 12 full hours! It was the final immunity challenge of Survivor: Palau. Where they stood on a pole in the water, with their feet on a small pole. Around 5 hours in, a player named Katie steps off her thing, leaving two players left. The challenge continues, Katie and Jeff sit on the dock waiting for someone to drop. After 8 hours Katie falls asleep. Finally Ian dropped after 12 hours. Damn.

My top 10 favorite survivor seasons:

10. Heroes Vs Villains- my best friend made me watch this a few years ago, I didn't pay any attention, but loved when Boston Rob passed out.

9. Blood vs Water- They are forced to vote out their loved ones. Hunger Games vibes

8. Kaoh Rong- all the people who quit? YES

7. Micronesia- the idea of fans vs favorites was so smart, and the black widows were so powerful.

6. Cagayan- First Survivor season I ever watched, half of my family hated Spencer, the other half of us loved him.

5. Cambodia (second chance)- It was some of my favorite players all playing. SO good.

4. Game Changers - Again, some of my favorite players, and a lot of serious topics I feel passionate about!

3. Millennials vs Gen X- YES. YES. YES. Jay looked so much like Conan Gray, and the story of Adam and his mother almost made me cry. I LOVED THE CAST SO MUCH.

2. Island of the Idols- There were so many people in this season who I love so much. SO MUCH. I loved the Sandra and Rob twist so much, and the idols. This would totally be my top 1, if it weren't for the whole Dan thing.

1. David vs Goliath- I honestly don't know what to say about this. I LOVED players like Davie and Christian so much. And NED SCHNEEBLY FROM SCHOOL OF ROCK WAS ON IT HIMSELF.

BVR Eats

by Keola & Charlie

Hey guys! Welcome to our second BVR Eats. For the clarification for the people that don't attend or work at Beaver: every day at Beaver we are served breakfast and lunch. The dining service that makes and prepares our food is called Sage Dining. (Big shout out to them) We review most of the lunches that are served here, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, now let's get into the food!

Item #1: Mac 'n' cheese (Friday 12/3)

Beaver has a lot of great childhood foods, one being macaroni and cheese! They make their mac and cheese fresh! Personally I thought it was very good because it was not over the top cheesy but there was still a lot of cheese to make your taste buds smile. We will now interview Brittany Franklin (2028) on her opinion of macaroni and cheese. "I gave it an 8/10. It needed more salt but I do like it because it is not too extravagant but it is still your feel-good macaroni and cheese!"

Item #2: Chicken tenders and waffle fries (Monday 12/6)

The Beaver chicken tenders is a fan favorite for most especially with the waffle fries that you can't go wrong with. The chicken tenders were nicely breaded and the waffle fries were a little soggy. But now let's see if the students agree with me. We're going to interview Reid Bugbee (2028) and see what she thinks of the food. She says, "It was very good and it tasted scrumptious. The fries were very delicious with the perfect amount of salt on them. I rank it 9/10."

Item #3: BVR Cupcakes (Tuesday 12/7)

Tuesday, December 7th was Beaver's 101st birthday! Happy birthday Beaver! To celebrate, we had cupcakes! What could be a better way to celebrate Beaver's 101st birthday than with delicious, sweet, fluffy, white and blue cupcakes (Turning some people into smurfs)? I'm not sure! We will now interview Natalie Lippman (2028) on the cupcakes! She said: "They had too much frosting but it was really good and the cupcakes were not too dry but they were very sweet and sugary and put me on a sugar rush." She ranks it a 7.5 out of 10!

Thank you guys for reading this week's article. If you want to be interviewed, put your name and grade in the box outside of room 103. Thanks again for reading and we'll see you guys next week, Bye!

To Prove My Worth

by William & Joza

-Triston-

I REELED IT IN, I HAD FINALLY CAUGHT THAT WRECKED CLOWNFISH. IT SLIPPED AROUND IN MY HAND. I GRABBED IT, AND CUT OFF ITS TAIL. I FINALLY GOT IT AFTER 5 TRIES. ONLY THE TRUFFLES LEFT TO COLLECT. I WENT TO THE WIZARD'S SHACK, AND KNOCKED ON THE DOOR.

"AH, I SEE YOU HAVE BROUGHT ME SOME INGREDIENTS,"

HE SAID.

"YES I HAVE," I REPLIED.

I GAVE HIM THE FROGS, AND THE CLOWN FISH'S TAIL. I LEFT THE SHACK WITHOUT ANOTHER WORD. I STILL HADN'T GOTTEN ANY OF THE TRUFFLES. I NEEDED A PLAN. AFTER ABOUT AN HOUR, I CAME UP WITH ONE! I WOULD GO INTO THE CITY, HOPEFULLY NOT BE RECOGNIZED, AND BUY SOME TRUFFLES! IT WOULD BE THE PERFECT PLAN! IT WOULD BE WAY BETTER THAN MINDLESSLY WALKING THROUGH THE FOREST. I WENT INTO THE CITY.

-Alcaz-

That knight has finally come back with the ingredients with him!

If only he could come back with that Fabled white Truffle that could grant me access into Marvins castle! With it i could infiltrate the vault where he keeps his subj- i mean projects. Hmmm, I wonder, I wonder... Could he be? Is it possible? After all these years, no, it couldn't be him not after all those foolish knights it just doesn't make sense! I trained for 40 YEARS! All to just have MARVIN take it from me! I, I, I! Should have been the one not him! He wasn't even able to FINISH the job but now this knight just comes along and BOOM! Now HE 'S the one?!?! NO i don't believe it! BUT! If he proves worthy of the sword, he will be, he will be...

Descendants 2 by Yeet & Feet

Last week we talked about Teen Beach Movie! We also forgot what our users were, so now please refer to us a „YEET” and „FEET”. Thanks! But anyways this week we are talking about Descendants 2! Next week we might talk about Descendants or Descendants 3, this week is all Descendants 2 though.

So descendants 2 is about how Mal (the daughter of maleficent) is trying to decide whether she wants to stay good or turn bad again. She goes through a lot of struggle and it is very hard for her but eventually she figures it out with the help of her friends (Evie daughter of the evil queen, Carlos son of Cruella D’evil and Jay son of Jafar) and boyfriend (ben son of belle and the beast).

Now you might be wondering, “yeet and feet, why would we want to watch this movie?”, well because it's bad. I mean it's really bad and cheesy, why would you not want to watch it? It's funny to watch and if you think about it has a really weird plot. No hate on the movie though, it's just not in the “age range” for most people in this school anymore. The songs are really catchy too, in 2nd grade I was known for singing Chillin like a Villain at the top of my lungs. But it's still a nice movie, and the relationships are cute, but let's just talk about one character real quick. YALL UMA! Uma is the BOMB.COM! Her song is so catchy and has such a unique personality, the actor is very good at portraying the character. Ok, so I guess that's another reason to watch the movie, but yeah.

This entire trilogy is good for all the reasons, and I mean come on, who hasn't watched those movies. Why not watch them again to see how much your taste in movies has changed or stayed the same. But yes, definitely go watch the other movies too! That's all for this week! Yeet and Feet OUT!

“Because we're rotten, TO THE CORE” - Mal (daughter of Maleficent)

Thunder Escaping

Chapter 11 - Into The Tunnel by Quinn

Tap tap tap went the paws of anxious wolves, drip drip drip went the drops that fell from the roof of their rocky prison, whoosh went the water as it began to flow backward.

“Moon, you're doing it!” exclaimed Thunder, shortly before clamping his tail over his mouth as Moon broke concentration to glance at him.

She went back to the zoned out state she had assumed previously. SHE chanted something under her breath and it started working again.

Jet might have been nervous but no one would be able to tell from the way she held herself as she descended into the murky depths.

The plan was for Jet to go in and for Moon to send a rock in afterward, if it came back with one scratch then it meant that it was safe to go through, if it didn't...

Right before Jet ducked under a yelp came from the small crowd of wolves. “Don't go mommy!” Owl cried, the pup trying to push her way through the legs of her sibling that blocked her path.

“I'm going to be fine, honey, we're going to find a beautiful new home and be safe and happy,” Jet soothed, showing the side of her that rarely came out, the one that cared deeply for her family.

“I want the old home back!” she sobbed, her tiny eyes squeezed shut with misery.

Regret flickered in Jet's eyes. “That home is gone,” she murmured, “But you have to be brave while mommy is away, can you do that for me?”

She rested her head on Owl's tiny neck. “Okay,” she said, trembling slightly.

With a last small lick Jet disappeared beneath the surface.

After a couple tense minutes, Moon stopped chanting for a moment to speak; “Toss the rock in now, I think she's through,”

“You think? that was my mate you just sent through!” Falcon hissed, lashing his tail.

"It's unclear, I'm not sure," Moon stuttered, the water started to go back to normal again.

"Moon, start chanting again!" Thunder cried bounding up to her and picking up a rock in his mouth, "I'll send the rock through."

Moon's only response was a curt nod before she began moving the water again.

Thunder tossed the rock he had picked up in the water, though instead of sinking the water carried it.

They once again had to wait in tense silence. Thunder tried to calm the claustrophobic thoughts that began to crowd his mind, he listened to the continuous flow of the river but it only brought back more memories...

"There it is!" exclaimed one of Jet's children, leaping to the edge of the river and snatching the stone out of its greedy depths. She dropped it and turned it over, observing the smooth surface, smooth except for a scratch.

"She's okay," sighed the wolf, her green eyes glowing with relief.

Moon paused for another second. "Alright, who's going next?"

Dust stepped to the front, only recognizable by her voice in the almost complete darkness. "I'll do it,"

"Alright, I won't send the stone for you, now that we know that there is something on the other side," Moon informed her, planting her feet to begin the process again.

Without another word, Dust took a deep breath and leapt in. After that, wolves started to silently slip in until only Thunder was left.

His heart started to race and the cave was spinning, he took a deep breath. For Ravan, she would want me to do it, she would do it for me.

Before he could think twice he took a step into the water. It was moving quickly and already pushing at the paw, threatening to sweep it out from under him.

He turned around to look at Moon, her brow creased with worry as she fought for the lives of a whole pack, her fur shining and damp from the spray of the river, her slim face determined to save them all.

"Goodbye," he whispered to Moon, the wolf who was his friend, who he wanted to be more, who was brave and smart and fiery, the wolf who he might never see again.

Chapter 8 Message

After getting a moon and coming back from the forest realm, I saw a scroll come down. Well, a "holographic" scroll. It landed right in the middle.

"Let's go look at it!" My brother said,

I keep forgetting that he is there. I hope mom and dad are buying our lie.

I'm so homesick right now...

I trot over to the spinning scroll.

When I look at the page, I can barely make out half the words! All I can make out is about destroying a. Corruption?

"Oh no... Oh no no no.." my brother murmured.

"What's the problem?" I said, confused.

“Every time I turn on the console to see how you're doing, it glitches out with this white kind of static. I didn't think much of it at the time, but now it makes sense...” he said.

“So that means that I have to deal with that... White stuff..?” I said timidly.

“I hope not any time soon...” he said.

Well I can't just stay here. I need to go home!

I go to the jagged stairs. A moon slot appears.
I place the moon inside of the slot.

woooosh

Woah.

Some of the missing steps came back with this blue glow.

“It looks like every time you put a moon, some of the steps on the stairway come back!” I said.

“So all we have to do is find more moons.” my brother said confidently.

I started walking towards another portal since the forest one closed when I exited.

This time, it had a mountain picture on it.
I go through.

I appear in this snowy place.
The mountain is shown in front of me.

“Look out!” my brother yelled.

I look behind. I see a massive blob of corruption charge towards me.

I need to RUN.

NOW.

Stay tuned for the next chapter!

What Does the Q Mean? by Unsure

The LGBTQIA+ name has been changed and added to a lot over the years, it's probably still changing. The Q was officially added to the term in 2016 and was originally meant to stand for queer, but it has also come to mean something else, the word I will be talking about today; questioning.

But what does questioning mean? It means that you are still figuring out your gender or sexuality, or considering the possibility of being in the LGBTQIA+ community.

I wanted to talk about this because it seems that even in books with LGBTQIA+ characters, they are only questioning in the middle and they always seem to figure out how they want to identify by the end. This could just be me but I still wanted to talk about it.

I haven't had that many crushes in my life but the most recent one was last year and they had the same gender as me. Before then I had never really considered the possibility of being in the LGBTQIA+ community, despite knowing what it was.

I still don't know if that was a one time thing, I haven't had any crushes since then, so I am currently questioning. I thought it would be important to share this because other people might be feeling the same. I wanted to show people that it is alright and perfectly normal to not know, you don't have to feel like you have to give a name to what you're feeling or sort yourself into a group, you can just explore who you are, and that is different for everyone, but that doesn't mean you're alone.

If you want to connect with others in the community or allies then you should check out SAGA in the art room on Fridays for pizza and open discussion.
