BVR Eats by Charlie & Keola

Hey guys we're back for another food review article like last time we're going to review three food items and interview one person for each item, ok now let's get into the food!

Charlie Schaffer (2028)

Item #1: Turkey burger and chipotle fries (Monday 12/13)

The turkey burger was your classic, delicious turkey burger! I thought it was very juicy and tender. The chipotle fries were SUPER spicy in my opinion because I am not good with spice. On the other hand, my friends were all saying that they were not spicy at all and I was crazy. We will now interview Quinn Burke (2028) on the burger and Lawrence Rosembert (2028) on the fries. Quinn said, "I found it to not taste like turkey and the taste was not weak but not strong and I did not care for the flavor" She would also like to mention that she is a very picky eater and she generally likes the Beaver food a lot. Lawrence said, "The fries were pretty spicy and would probably compete with a Popeyes biscuit without water. Put a lot of salt on that bad boy or you will need to drink a lot of water."

Keola Appleton (2028)

Item #2: Burritos and churros (Friday 12/10)

The burrito was pretty great, the only problem was that the tortilla was a little small especially for a big guy like me but overall it was everything you'd want in a burrito from the ground beef to the salsa. I personally don't like many desserts so I didn't get the churros so let's interview Toby Marsh and Oliver Winston (2028). They said that the churros were dry and needed a filling, and there also wasn't enough sugar, but they were still decent.

Anyway, that's going to wrap up this week's BVR Eats. Remember, if there are any articles that you want to see, write it on a piece of paper and put it in the box outside of room 103, Bye!

Thunder Escaping, Chapter 12

by Quinn

Thunder's lungs screeched for oxygen, he was exhausted and every stroke to the almost non-existent pocket of air was agony. Freezing water rushed past, he could see nothing and feel nothing but endless tug of the current and the endless fear of drowning in this endless tunnel.

Without warning the current slammed him into one of the tunnel walls, knocking any air that was left out of his lungs. His head was throbbing, up was down, left was right, life was almost death.

He was barely able to think and maybe that wasn't even the right word for it, more like a wild instinct to survive, whatever it was, he braced himself and propelled himself in the direction he thought was up, draining the last of his energy, but he breathed. He breathed like he never had before, he breathed like he was trying to suck up all the precious air in the world, he breathed like it was his last breath, which it very well could be.

Almost immediately after he breathed he had to clamp his mouth shut again and be sucked into the deep, dark depths. His eyes stung but something reached his eyes, the slightest sliver of light, he ducked his head in and propelled forward with everything he had.

After the longest, most exhausting seconds of his life, Thunder broke through the surface, although this time he stayed there, bobbing along on the waves. He felt like he hadn't felt the sun on his fur in years, it was over.

Though, as the last of the adrenaline faded, he realized that he was just stuck in the middle of the ocean with no energy and no direction.

He slowly turned his head around, trying to find the beach, fighting to keep his panic down. This was worse than the river, so much worse.

He finally caught sight of the land and started slowly beginning to meander towards it. He didn't think of his aching limbs or the fact that the current could pull him out at any moment, he just focused on surviving.

Paddle, paddle, paddle, keep paddling. His spirits were falling as he continued to realize how little progress he was making. Just gotta keep going, paddle, paddle, paddle, keep paddling.

Thunder's fear was beginning to overtake him, he began to frantically paddle for the shore, just as a sound reached his ear;

"Help! I don't like this!" it whimpered, it's pitiful cries barely audible over the crashing water.

Thunder swerved his head towards it, he saw her, Owl, behind him. All his survival instincts and rising fear told him to ignore it, to keep swimming, but his heart wouldn't let him.

He was stuck, frozen, why did he let this fear come back time and time again? Why couldn't he just forget to fear?

It was then when he heard Moon's voice in his head, You don't need to forget her, but you should learn to live with the fear, not in it.

Alright, Moon, I'll do it.

Yes VS No
School Uniforms

by Joza & William

Should schools have uniforms? It's time for a VS!
Let's find out in this thrilling debate (even though it's been awhile).

Joza's argument (yes):

It's been awhile since the last debate, but I still got the skills to win it. First of all, it saves a lot of time for students because they don't need to take time choosing what they want to wear! Having uniforms also leads to less anxiety, and it makes people feel more like equals.

Having school uniforms saves so much time for many students as they don't need to take time to choose their clothes. This means that less students will be late to school or to the bus stop, because they aren't going to waste time on picking clothes!

Having uniforms also leads to less anxiety and kids not worrying about what others think of their clothes because everyone is wearing the same thing! And if students have less anxiety, they will have more of a chance to focus on their learning. Also, not having anxiety is just a huge thing for everyone, especially those that are very self-conscious (like me).

Finally, it makes people feel more like equals as other people aren't wearing really expensive clothes (ex. Gucci bags (not sponsored)). It brings more of a sense of equality and again, people become less self-conscious.

That is why schools should have uniforms!

NO to uniforms! William's Argument

Hey VS fans! I'm back with better stuff!! This week is an easy one! So let's just vote now, hmmm, oh, I see... yes yes, i am better at this, i win?! Easy wha?! No? Fine, 😊

First off, school uniforms should not even EXIST!!!!!! The reasons why are simple: students who have to wear school uniforms can not express themselves because they have to wear the exact same thing every day. Having School uniforms means that every person looks exactly the same! BORIIIIIIING! If every person wears a school uniform then they can't express themselves, like, what if they don't like the school uniform? Then they are stuck wearing it for the rest of school. That's not how it should work! The students should get to decide for themselves what they want to wear! A quote from Lawrence Rosembert: "School uniforms should be a thing of the past because it limits students from choosing what they want to wear and doesn't let them express themselves. Also, it's annoying having to wear the same thing almost every day when there's a cool shirt that you would love to bring into school." So, schools should NOT have uniforms!

Nice Advice by Niceperson223

Welcome back to my advice channel. Today we have 3 new pieces of advice that may or may not help you!

First: "Hi I have an extremely annoying 'friend.' They always gossip about me and their other friends are mean to me. They just don't understand why I'm so upset! HELP!!!!" I would say to just talk to them to make them understand why you are so upset and tell them how you feel about the gossiping.

Next: "Dear Nice Person, I have a problem. One of my friends that I have known for a while is acting jerky, and my new friend who I also like doesn't like to hang out with a mean friend. I want to be friends with both of them." Please don't pick one or the other because I know from experience you'll regret it forever. For the advice part just hang out with them separately or just explain to each one what bothers you! If they're your real friend they'll understand.

Advice #3: "Hi Nice Person 223, I need help telling someone I don't want to be their friend. What do I do?" Never say you don't want to be their friend anymore! Just say you want to take some space for a while, don't not be their friend, just be their acquaintance!

That's it for today, remember if you have a question just drop it off at the box outside Ms. FitzGerald's classroom or email me at niceadvice223@gmail.com. Bye!

Fidget Reviews by Katie & Natalie

Hello! This week we are going to be reviewing fidgets. We will go by each and show a photo and talk about it and rate it 1 - 10.

Pop its: Pop its are good. They could get boring sometimes though. I really do enjoy popping them at night when I get anxious. I would give them 9/10.

The Cheesecake Times

December 17, 2021 Beaver Country Day School Grade 6 Volume 1, Issue 11

I love Tangles because you can take them apart and you can connect them. I would give Tangles 8.5/10 because they're fun but each Tangle just has a new print they are all the same really.

Needohs are AMAZING!!!!

They are so fun to squish. They can pop pretty easily though. So I rate them a 7/10.

I don't know how I feel about Pop Tubes.. They can be kinda loud and annoying. But they are really fun to play with and you can connect them together. I rate these a 4/10

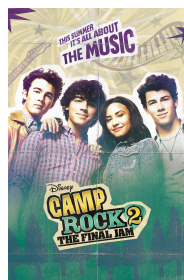

In my opinion Model Magic is the best fidget, especially when you get it all soft with hand sanitizer. I can squeeze my anxiety and anger out with it. I give it a 10/10.

Thanks for reading. Write us a note in our mailbox right next to Ms. FitzGerald's room if you want us to do another rating fidgets. Or you can still email me (Katie) @bornk28@bcdschool.org. Just a reminder, please don't be rude because fidgets are not just toys, they can help anyone who needs it to calm down, be distracted, and help with their anxiety. Have a great day and yet again thanks for reading byeeee!

Camp Rock 2: Movie Review by Yeet & Feet

Ok so Camp Rock 2. We all love it and hate it at the same time, but mostly hate. But then why are we writing a movie review? Well because these movies are funny to watch. We hope you enjoy our article on Camp Rock 2! It is about a girl who is basically broke but then she wants to sing so she goes to this camp to sing but she gets bullied. So it's every teen movie ever, except at a sleepaway camp. You know how the person always has to fall in love with the "cool person" in these movies? Well she falls in love with one of the Jonas brothers! YA! That's the first one, but the second camp rock she's now the cool kid, but then the camp across the lake challenges them to a contest!

No, why any of the movies we suggest, and definitely a sequel to a not good movie. First off the dances in this movie are *chefs kiss*. It's basically fortnite dances but it's Demi Levato failing at it. Also the characters have such weird personalities. One was the bad guy in the first, then became good but became the bad guy AGAIN! Then there is a girl Nick Jonas falls in love with (yes, Demi Levato falls in love with a Jonas brother, but it's not Nick). I mean the fact that all of the Jonas brothers AND Demi Levato are in it should already sell it for you. None of them can act! So enjoy Camp Rock 2!

"This is me trying to save something I care about" - Mitchie Torres (Demi Levato)

3~2~1 OMG 22!!!

by That Gurl Lay Lay & Young Queen B~e~e

IT IS ALMOST NEW YEAR'S YASS!!!!

2021 was a pain but there were some ups and downs! I know from last new year it was pretty emotional to say goodbye to 2020 good bye covid. What nostalgia it was when we said goodbye forever to one of the craziest years in this generation! So for today we have new year resolutions!! First off, if you feel like you argue with your parents or fight with your siblings a lot, that could be a very nice resolution that doesn't take much time to become a habit or anything like that! You could have a fitness resolution and try to exercise more! That is a very healthy resolution that will benefit everybody! You could try to be more organized and clean your room (even though most would not enjoy this)! You can also try to cut down on plastic usage to help the environment

The Cheesecake Times

December 17, 2021 Beaver Country Day School Grade 6 Volume 1, Issue 11

(because we all really need to cut down on plastic and I can go on and on for many reasons why!) You can also try to be more creative, kind, active, helpful and empathetic! So those are some great new year resolutions to try out for the new year! Or get into a new book or eat healthy or spend more time with family, anything fun but not too drastic.

NEW YEARZ OUTFIT IDEAS!!!!!!

OMG so I am thinking of gold short dresses with sequins!!!! Like totally fab!! And maybe even navy blue would clash soooo well with some fab golden shoes like high heels!!!! (with sparkles of course!) Here are some awesome ideas I had in mind so you can go on your way to stores and find dresses like this! Because trust me this will be the golden new year!

This right here is a great example because it is sparkly just how the new year is gonna be! Perfect style too! You will look like you're ready to have some partying and fireworks with this cute cropped dress on! And of course gold or navy blue would look amazing too with this style of dress!

See! This lady gets it! Out of all the colors gold and sparkly is the way to go!! So those are some ideas and tips for a fashionable new years YASS QUEENS!!

Here are some other ideas that are NOT dresses!

As you can see this jacket is keeping the gold rule! I almost forgot black and red is also an awesome color for new years!! Here is a great example of using the red color code and it looks awesome! A red dress with a long cape would look very exaggerated and fancy which most would want to look at on such occasions! All I have to say is if you don't want to wear a dress, vests and tuxedos are the way to go with black red and gold! And maybe a fun hat with feathers because we all want to be extra awesome counting down another new year. Or you could wear one of those domino masks that are new years colors like this!!

And when the clock strikes 12... IT WILL BE 2022!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! And I hope you spend your last moments of 2021 wholesomely and happily! ANYWAYZ! I HOPE YOU ALL HAVE A FANTASTIC WINTER BREAK AND I WILL SEE YOU IN... THE YEAR 2022!!!! LIKE WHATTT!!!!!!!!!! I HOPE IF YOU CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS YOU GET AWESOME CHRISTMAS GIFTS AND I HOPE THE NEWSLETTER FROM LAST YEAR HELPED WITH GIFT IDEAS IF YOU WERE STUCK! ANY WAY I HOPE YOU HAVE AN AWESOME BREAK WHEREVER YOU CELEBRATE IT AND AN AMAZE NEW YEAR!!!!!! 3~2~1~ OMG 22!!!!!!!!!! YASS!!!!!!!!

Monthly Murderers: Ted Bundy

by Ollie / Jaz

⚠ WARNING; this article does not contain graphic content, but this is a heavy topic and if you decide to look further into this you may find some more disturbing things. ⚠

Theodore Robert Bundy or Ted Bundy was one of the world's most renowned serial killers. He was born in Burlington, Vermont on November 24, 1946 and was executed in prison on January 24, 1989 by the electric chair. Bundy started his murder spree in 1974 with his first victim. After that he went city to city pretending to be injured of some sort so that young girls, typically college students, would come to help him. After that he would murder them. Ted was often considered a “good looking” guy to any of the people that had seen him, which was why so many girls were so open to helping him shopping at her local supermarket when a police officer came up to her and told her her car was broken into and that she needed to go to the station with him. This officer was none other than Ted Bundy, but of course she didn't know that. While they were on their way Carol got a bad feeling and attempted to leave the car, but Bundy grabbed her and handcuffed her. She still managed to escape and is currently living her life healthy and happy. As multiple people had reported seeing a suspicious vehicle eventually Bundy was caught and taken to Florida state prison and was electrocuted by electric chair in 1989.

One day a woman named Carol Daronch was .

Chapter 9
Celeste

Well, that was an exaggeration. The corruption is pretty far.

The mountain is really tall.
I need to start running.

"You need to keep going. You can't let corruption get near you."

That's what I said!

Anyways, I start running up the hills. The corruption is almost on my tail.

I listen to crunches as I walk up the mountain. It's actually kind of relaxing.

I look around, seeing if I can find anything that could help me. I still need to get those moons you know.

There's trees, flags, and.. a little shack. Let's see if there's something useful inside.

I open the door.

*creak*

It's pretty cluttered. Old couches, tools, cans, nails, snowboards and...

SKI POLES!

"Perfect!" I exclaim.

It was pretty thick, so it could help me climb the mountain a lot easier!

I walk out of the shack to get back on track.

"Oh noo..." we both say.
The corruption is almost here.

Welp, time to get running

*crunch*

*crunch*

*crunch*

I pant as I try to run steadily on the slippery snow.

I keep looking behind to see if it's gaining on me.

It's slowly getting closer.

"Look out!" my brother yelled!

*THUNK*

My brother tried to warn me, but it was too late.
I ran head first into a tree.

The Cheesecake Times

December 17, 2021 Beaver Country Day School Grade 6 Volume 1, Issue 11

Is this the end? Is this the last time I'll hear my brother's voice? My head hurts to even think about it.

I hear the corruption slowly consumes me.

I know my time is limited, so I start squirming to hopefully get another chance at life.

Static plays.

Stay tuned for the next chapter!
